Introduction

There are many collectors of banknotes of the world who collect at least one banknote from each country. I am one of them. When I started this collection, I thought it would be quite simple to find out a list of countries that have issued banknotes, but as it turns out, this is not very easy. As the world is in constant flux, the political boundaries are being redefined constantly. There is no unanimity among the collectors about what will constitute a banknote issuing country.

Below are some of the assumptions I have made:

- For the countries where the geographic region stayed the same but the name of the country was changed, I have considered them to be a single country, e.g., Ceylon & Sri Lanka, Burma & Myanmar, etc.
- Notgelds issued by different cities of Germany, Austria, Poland, France, and other countries are not considered as separate issuing countries.
- Countries & territories that issued only the Notgelds and not any other banknotes are not considered as separate countries, e.g., Memel, Liechtenstein, etc.
- Banknotes issued by different states of the United States of America are not considered as different countries.
- Banknotes issued by different provinces of China are not considered as different countries.
- Even if the countries using unique issues of the banknotes issued by central banknote issuing authorities other than their own are considered as separate country e.g., Tahiti, which only issued notes of 'Banque de l'Indochine' and the 'Institut d'Émission d'Outre-Mer' but never had its own banknote issuing institute.
- Countries that have used over stamped or uniquely identifiable banknotes issued by other countries within their territories are considered as separate countries, e.g., Azores.

I am very much aware that many people will have different points of views on this subject. I welcome their feedback.
